Course information

This training is an invitation for all those who are working with groups in the field of personal growth and therapy, and who feel the longing to deepen their understanding of the subtle dynamics that unfold within a group. It is a rare chance, since Svagito doesn't offer this course so often…

In this course, together, we will explore how to create a space of trust, presence, and love - an atmosphere in which each participant feels safe to open, to be seen, and to reveal their inner world. We will also tune in to the quality of meditative presence, allowing the group field itself to become a doorway to awareness.

You will be introduced to the art of holding and guiding open sharings in a way that supports people in moving more deeply into themselves, into silence, and into authenticity.

Among the themes we will explore:

- What allows a group process to deepen and become transformative
- Meeting 'negativity' or 'disturbances' with awareness and compassion

- The natural rhythm and stages of a group journey
- Sensitivity to different kinds of participants, and how to include everyone
- The dance between structure and openness
- What nourishes or weakens the energy of the group leader
- Recognizing personal qualities and unconscious blind spots
- The art of co-leading
- Working with participants from different cultural backgrounds

This training is primarily experiential. There will be space for participants to lead short group processes and receive conscious, supportive feedback.

Our approach is rooted in the vision of Osho - that a true therapist is not only a skilled guide, but also a fellow traveler; not separate from the group, but part of its living energy.

A short interview is required as this is a course for those who have experience working with people.

If you come from abroad and use public transport, you can fly to any airport in The Netherlands or to Düsseldorf (check Skyscanner).or take the train all the way.

If you fly to Schiphol Airport (Amsterdam), you take the train towards Arnhem/Nijmegen from the airport. You change trains in Arnhem to the local train towards Doetinchem or Winterswijk. The station of arrival is Doetinchem, where you will be picked up (please notice me in advance!). There are several connections per hour.

At other Dutch airports (Rotterdam-The Hague, Eindhoven, Maastricht, Groningen) you need to take a shuttle bus to the train station first and then take the train towards Arnhem. There, you also need to change to the local train towards Doetinchem or Winterswijk and get off at Doetinchem station, where you will be picked up (please notice me in advance!).

It is also possible to fly to Düsseldorf in Germany. The easiest is to take train 'RE19' from the airport and exit at Zevenaar station. There you take the local train towards Doetinchem or Winterswijk and exit the train at Doetinchem station, where you will be picked up (please notice me in advance!).
This connection is offered once an hour. There is also an ICE-train option, but then you need to change trains one more time.
